SEVENTIETH YEAR

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1947

NUMBER 10

CONGRESSIONAL
WASHINGTONBy CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress

By February 15 the fiscal committee of congress set up under the legislative reorganization act, must submit a legislative budget, fixing over-all amounts which can be spent in the coming fiscal year. As a basis upon which to work, the congressional committee will use the budget submitted by the president in his annual budget message three weeks ago.

In order to get a picture of just what the President is proposing in his budget that the federal government spend during the new fiscal year of 1948, which begins July 1, 1947, I have made a rather careful study of this astounding document. This has taken some time, for it contains one thousand six hundred and twenty-six pages, and weighs six pounds and four ounces. Mr. Truman insists that during the next year he must have $37.5 billion for government expenses. In his budget message he estimates the government's total income from taxes and other revenues would be $37 billion 700 million dollars for the coming year, which means that only $200 million will be left to meet emergencies, or to be applied toward retiring the national debt. Incidentally, our national debt now stands at $259 billion; so, at the rate of payment suggested by the president, it would only take 51 years to retire it, if no new depressions come along.

The president's budget proposes reductions in expenditures in only two of its major divisions. In the other twelve it asks that expenditures for next year be increased by some 9 billion 400 million dollars over last year. As an example it is proposed the state department be given twice as much money this year as last; the veterans' administration twice as much as last; RFC be increased by three times over last year; and that the appropriations for library service be tripled.

To show how government spending, in this third year of peace following the war, compares with costs in peace-time years before the war, here are a few interesting figures: It cost $100,000 to maintain and run the White House in 1933. For the next year Mr. Truman's bureau which is directly under the president, in the last peace-time year before the war cost $7,500,000.

Back in 1940 our foreign service cost $14 million. For this coming fiscal year the diplomats insist they must have $117 million. The department of labor, 1933, had a total operating expense of $22 million. Now it is claimed $106,322,000 must be appropriated to that department for the next fiscal year. The department of commerce was able to get along on $20 million in 1933. It is now asking for $39,814,000 of public funds for the coming year. Back before Pearl Harbor the interior department cost $150 million a year to operate; now the amount requested is $363 million.

The bureau of public roads is seeking appropriations of $435 million dollars for the new year, in $169 million in 1940. Public housing is asking for $173 million for operation plus authority to grant mortgage loans of $442 million. Back in 1940 public housing functioned on $19 million.

If the government is to operate its income, balance the budget, make substantial payments on the national debt, and reduce the tax burden on the people, the president's budget request of $37.5 billion must be cut to somewhere between $30 and $32 billion. A year from now public spending should be reduced even more. A $25 billion annual budget to operate the federal government is about all the American people can possibly support. Today it is costing 25 per cent of the total national income to meet the running expenses of our federal government. State and local governments are costing from 5 to 10 per cent more. No wonder prices are so high, and it is so difficult for the average citizen to lay away a few dollars for a "rainy day." The tax collector gets too much.

RECOMMEND 100
BED HOSPITAL FOR GREENE CO.

Greene county needs a general hospital and is financially able to build and maintain such an institution. Dr. Fred G. Carter (of Cleveland) a citizens' group at the court house Tuesday afternoon.

The Cleveland physician who is superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital in that city reported orally at the conclusion of a two-day survey of this county's hospital needs and its ability to support them. He was recommended to the public hospital committee for this purpose by the American Hospital Assn. and his services were paid for by the Xenia, Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Carter told the group that it should encourage a project for a 100 bed hospital when economic conditions are stabilized. He estimated the cost at present construction prices at between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 but said this figure may be saved down as much as one-third by a future economy.

He recommended that the building be so planned that beds and face-department building trades values in this can be added inexpensively as needed with the least possible disturbance to continue operation and suggested that such an addition might be incorporated in the original plans for completion when the community has demonstrated its ability to maintain a larger hospital.

Dr. Carter said the experience in obtaining admission to hospital's now is at its worst stage and should improve with the addition of facilities in nearby cities and an improvement in non-medical labor conditions. Maintenance of such a hospital as recommended, he said, would cost from $249,000 to $246,000 a year, based on a per capita per diem cost of $8 to $9. While a substantial part would come from paying patients a large part would have to be financed by the public.

However, in addition to the advantages to the county from having hospital facilities available there is an added advantage in an improved medical group because of the education of physicians through a hospital and the possibility of attracting specialists and other new medical talent.

Dr. Carter favored caution in procedure not only because of the difficulty in obtaining staff employees now but because of the unwillingness of contractors to submit firm bids in a changing building trades market. He discussed the financial ability of the county to build and maintain the institution based on the tax duplicate and bank and building loan deposits and other indicators.

AGAINST WRIGHT
VIEW OFFICERS

Three officials of Wright View, a Bath township village, were the target of a temporary injunction obtained Wednesday noon by Prosecutor Marens Shoup in common pleas court, restraining them from exercising jurisdiction over offenses committed outside the village's corporation limits.

Named defendants in the action, brought by the prosecutor for the state of Ohio, were Mayor Harry E. Hodge, Marshal Harry O. Guenther and Deputy Marshal Charles Wilhoite.

The prosecutor said his action had "nothing to do" with a "speed trap" dispute late in December between village officials and the sheriff's office. Mr. Shoup said he had received numerous complaints about Wright View's law enforcement tactics and that he instigated the suit to prevent the filing of a multiplicity of actions by persons arrested and fined in the Wright View area.

No date for a hearing on the case has been set since the defendants must be served and then must ask for a court ruling if they seek revocation of the order.

In his petition, the prosecutor alleged the marshal and his deputy "for a prolonged period" have arrested drivers "without due process or authority of law" for offenses outside the village of Wright View.

"Each of the cases," he said, "was taken before Mayor Hodge without a warrant and the mayor subjected the alleged offenders to fines and court costs of an ever-varying penalty as will be evidenced and submitted to the court."

Mr. Shoup declared that practically all violations were of stop streets or intersections, "which, in truth, are not streets but junctions or outlets on county roads in the unincorporated sections of Bath township."

"The illegal arrests," the prosecutor declared, "deprived the persons so charged of their constitutional rights and guarantees under the laws of the state of Ohio."

Jury Awards $5,000
Damages in Case

After deliberating most of the afternoon last Friday, a common pleas court awarded $5,000 damages to Robert Monroe, 62, Osborn, who sued the Deacatur Cartage Co. of Chicago as a result of a personal injury he suffered in a highway accident on Route 4, near Wright on Jan. 12, 1946.

The actual amount of damages was the only aspect of the case the jury had to consider after Judge Frank L. Johnson's directed verdict had requested $83,281.44 damages, in Monroe's favor. The Osborn man The trial lasted four days.

BIG REDS DROP
HOME FINALE
TO VALLEY 5

Cedarville high school's Big Reds of the hardwood lost their final home game of the season, last Friday night at Alford Memorial gym, to Spring Valley by a count of 44-22.

Scoring was slow for both teams in the opening quarter and it ended with the score knotted at 7-7. In the second quarter the Big Reds were unable to locate the hoop with any degree of regularity while the visitors split the nets with twice the number they garnered in the opening frame to put Spring Valley out in front at the halftime intermission with a score of 21-16.

In the third period the Big Reds dropped another point to give their cross-county rivals a 6 point lead, 33-27, as the final frame got underway.

The last period was the only one of the game that the locals outscored the visitors and their rally fell only two points short of breasting the leads from Spring Valley.

The junior high boys rolled in the same number of points as their big brothers to win handily over the visiting juniors 42-22.

Next Friday night the Big Reds will wind up their regular season play by traveling to Beaver Creek. Last Friday Beaver Creek lost a 43-40 decision to Bryan the latter undisputed first place in the county league. The Big Reds are now tied for fourth with Spring Valley.

Opposition Grows
Against Quail Plan

State Representative Lowell Pass of Yellow Springs has introduced a bill in the lower house to take quail off the "song bird" list but not for game. The bill provides for state propagation of quail by the conservation department. At present quail are not game birds in the state.

Farm organizations as well as individual farmers are quick to oppose the bill, regarding it as a stepping stone for "open season" for quail. Farmers regard the quail a valuable bird in that they consume many worms and bugs that are harmful to crops. There has always been a strong lobby in the legislature from urban as well as rural people to protect quail. Sportsmen want the birds taken off the song bird list.

JACKETS EVEN SCORE AGAINST
W. C. QUAKERS

"We're not asking any damages." "We consider it a good joke." Those were the words of Cedarville college President Ira D. Vayhinger and Dean of Men and Coach Mandell E. Beattie with reference to the point job that Wilmington college students did for Cedarville before the Quakers met the Yellow Jackets on the hardwood at Alford Memorial gym.

The night before the Jackets journeyed to Wilmington a few weeks ago, some of the loyal from the north end institution reportedly besmeared the Quaker edifices with paint. The Wilmington officials asked to be reimbursed for its removal.

On Wednesday morning following the game here, the Wilmington officials called to ask the estimated amount of damages, and received the above reply.

Oh, yes, Cedarville evened the score with the Quakers by taking a 58-52 verdict and also won the reverse contest with Wilmington by a count of 47-22. At the teams' earlier meeting in Wilmington, the Jackets lost to the Quakers.

After the Jackets had broken the scoring ice with a charity toss, Wilmington took command of the scoring for the first eight minutes until the locals found the range of the basket and solved the visitor's defense. Cedarville kept going and at the end of the first half were out in front by a score of 24-16.

The Jackets far outplayed the green clad Wilmingtonians in the second half, although the score doesn't indicate it. The locals had many good shot and plenty of rebounds, but just weren't "on" and their foul shooting wasn't up to par, either. On the other hand the Quakers couldn't penetrate the Jackets defense and got only long shots which they were hitting with uncanny accuracy and they were death on their free throws.

Toward the closing moments of the game the Quakers pulled within two points, but a pair of fast breaks off Ball's ball hawking iced the fray.

After a rough and tumble preliminary, the varsity game was a clean hard fought contest and Referee Turner and McDonald handled the game to perfection.

On last Saturday night the Jackets blasted Bliss by a count of 65-37.

On this Friday night the Jackets will face Georgetown at the local gym.

Grangers Hit

Beaver Lake Project

Determined opposition to the Beaver lake project was registered at a meeting of members of the Pomona Grange in Jamestown last Wednesday.

The lake had been proposed by the Conservation Department with the Greene County Fish and Game Association backing it. The project would cover 3,500 acres of the best farmland in the county and the lake cover 1,133 acres.

The argument of the Grange that by taking that much land a score of farmers would lose their farms, some of which have been homes for half of a century or more. Others would lose only part of their holdings and be left without a house in some instances and in others only a few acres to go with the improvement, for which the state would never fully compensate as to actual damage.

Moreover the lake would be the attraction for all sorts of people brought into the community that often, as proven by similar projects in Ohio, are inhabited with the class of people that have little regard for law observance and none for Sunday observance. Great damage would fall on Beaver Creek Twp. taxing districts, especially reducing the taxable income for school purposes because some 3,500 acres of land would be taken off the tax duplicate.

According to the opposition other farm organizations, as well as civic clubs, are to be asked to join in opposing the bill now before the legislature.

Tourist Camp Raid

Nets Dice Game

Jerome A. McPhee, 335 W. First St., Dayton, arrested in an anti-gambling raid conducted at 1 a. m. Saturday at a Bath Twp. tourist camp by Prosecutor Marcus Shoup, Deputy Sheriff J. R. Ramsey and two special deputies.

The Prosecutor said his office had received a "tip" that McPhee was operating a dice table in a garage-like building in the rear of a tourist camp on a side road off Route 69, near the Montgomery County line, three and a half miles west of Fairfield.

The Daytonian reportedly admitted the charge of exhibiting a gambling device for gain. Several men in the building with him, playing cards, were released. The table was ready for gambling but not in operation, Mr. Shoup said. The officers seized the paraphernalia and took it to Xenia.

McPhee, booked at the county jail, was later released on $500 bond.

DP&L Names

Power Plants

Kenneth C. Long, president of the Dayton Power and Light company, has announced the changing of the name of the electric generating station from Millers Ford station to the Frank M. Tait station; also the new electric generating station now under construction just south of Miamisburg, will be called the O. H. Hutchings station. A lasting tribute to the two men who have spent their working lifetime in the pioneering and developing of the electric system which is now The Dayton Power and Light Company, that it might better serve the territory covered by its network.

This honor bestowed upon Frank M. Tait, chairman of the board, and O. H. Hutchings, vice president of the company, is a fitting tribute in recognition of the long and faithful service rendered by these two men, to the community. Their enthusiastic optimism and faith in the industry and in the territory served by the company, have resulted in the generating capacity being installed always well in advance of the increasing demand for service. This fact is widely recognized as being largely responsible for the industrial growth of Dayton and the surrounding territory which in turn brought about the increased expansion in population throughout this area.

TREAT CATTLE FOR GRUBS

It is getting near the time to treat cattle to eradicate cattle grubs. Extension bulletin 229, "Cattle Grubs and Their Control" available at this office, lists two controls, the dusting and scrubbing method.

Ground derris or cube root is used. The dusting method is preferred where cattle are not kept in stables and where the water used in the scrubbing method would chill the backs of the animals. The dust is recommended only for short-haired animals.

1947 POTATO SUPPORT

The U. S. department of agriculture has set a national potato goal of 2,869,800 acres for 1947—116,000 acres below that planted in 1946. This acreage should produce under average conditions, a 375,000, 000-bushel crop compared with the all time record of 475,000,000 bushels this year.

The national acreage goal has been broken down to the state goals. The goals for individual farms will be established by the county agricultural conservation committee. Only growers who plant within their acreage goals will be eligible for price support under the department's 1947 potato support program.

SEED SITUATION BEST IN 4-YEARS

The 1946 production of field seeds has been termed the best in four years. Only one shortage loomed on the seed horizon and that was medium red clover which will not meet the demand despite the fact 1946 production was 21 per cent greater than in 1945.

Red clover production was higher in 1946, owing to the government's subsidy program which allowed farmers $3.50 per acre for harvesting and provided them with another nine cents a pound if they sold their seed to dealers before Dec. 31. However, there was no carryover from 1945 and non-seed-producing areas will find seed short.

Alfalfa seed showed the greatest increase in 1946 with a 41 per cent gain over the previous year. Average of the six principal legume and grass seeds was 17 per cent larger than in 1945 and 27 per cent above the 1935-44 average.

ANTU EFFECTIVE RAT BAIT

Thorough tests have proved Antu to be a valuable drug in the battle against rats. Secret of the success is the fact the poison has no tell-tale odor to rats and it may be mixed with a variety of foods which rats consume. In one case, a farmer who was bothered with rats from a neighbor's farm mixed Antu with canned dog food. He placed the mixture on paper plates where rats had been seen and picked up 200 rats the next day.

FEEDING THE FIVE THOUSAND

LESSON TEXT—John 6:25-35, 56-58. MEMORY SELECTION—I am that bread of life.—John 6:48.

Bread! The cry of the hungry peoples of the world for bread has reminded us anew that it is the simple and elemental things of life which are of most importance. Bread, water, light—such things man cannot do without. How significant then that our Lord declared himself to be the bread of life (John 6:35), the satisfying water (John 4:14), and the light of the world (John 8:12).

Our lesson does not deal with the feeding of the five thousand, but the story of that miracle of our Lord is the background for the discourse on the bread of life which is assigned for our study. It is one of the most delightfully simple, yet unathomably profound, portions of Scripture.

The story of how our Lord multiplied the loaves and fishes of a small boy's lunch and fed the multitude presents him as the Creator and Sustainer of all things. The people having been fed, wanted to take Jesus and make him their King (John 6:15), so he went over the Sea of Galilee to Capernaum. But he could not get away from them, for they followed him thither. Meeting them he gave them the instruction they so much needed as he effectively contrasted the temporal and earthly with the eternal and heavenly.

I. The Bread of Earth and the Bread of Heaven (vv. 25-37).

They sought Jesus not that they might receive spiritual blessings, but that their stomachs might be filled (v. 26). It was not a high motive, but an understandable one. Hunger, or the fear of hunger, threatens so many of the people of this earth that one does not find it in his heart to condemn them too severely.

Yet it was a low motive and one which caused them to entirely miss the greatest and most blessed provision of God for their every need. The bread of this earth, bearing the imprint of a human maker, would soon leave them hungry again, and eventually they would die. The bread of heaven, bearing the seal of the Father (v. 27), would soon satisfy them for all eternity.

Note the folly of those who labor for the reward which this world can give, but who neglect their eternal welfare (v. 27). How foolish, too, is the Christian who spends his whole life and his talents in the pursuit of money and invests little or nothing of time or ability in the service of God!

II. The Work of Men and the Work of God (vv. 28-33).

Entangled as they were in earthly things and desires, they seemed for a moment to reach out toward the things of God. Jesus had been talking about everlasting life and the bread from heaven; they wanted to know what they could do to merit and receive it.

It is quite typical of man even to this day that he thinks there must be some way that he can come through to eternal blessedness by way of his own works. We shall see how effectively Jesus dealt with that folly!

The only work that man can do to meet God's first demands and inherit eternal life is to believe in Christ (v. 29). Men want to add up works of penance, works of charity, deeds of righteousness, character development, the observance of religious traditions and ceremonies, the offering of prayers, and so on without end. Jesus sweeps aside all this with one brief word, saying in effect, "It is not a question of do; it is a matter of believe."

Works is not the answer to any spiritual need, but faith in Christ. We must trust God and believe in the One whom he has sent; then we are ready to go out and do his will!

They (yes, and we too) must now face the alternative.

III. The Way of Death and the Way of Life (vv. 34, 35, 56-58).

One could wish that the request made in verse 34 could be taken at face value, but the fact that they later turned away and left the Lord indicates that this was again a desire for physical bread. There was probably a vague desire for eternal life, too, but not enough to make them follow through with appropriate action. How much they were like folk today who want the benefits of Christianity, but who will not take up the cross.

There is here a bold contrast between the things of this earth, which, as we use them, perish (and, alas, we perish with them), and the things of God which are of eternal value and power.

Which shall it be, reader, for you? Are you willing to go on day after day on the way of death, or will you today take Christ, who is the way of life?

WORLD-WIDE ATTENTION FOCUSED ON ADVANTAGES FOUND IN OHIO

Literature distribution of the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission climbed to an all-time high during 1946, indicating growing national interest in Ohio's industrial, agricultural, recreational and historical advantages.

In order to facilitate the prompt answering of inquiries each month from manufacturers, tourists, students, homemakers, historians, publishers, and many others, averaging 17,000 pieces, Dann O. Taber, executive secretary of the commission, has prepared a series of books and pamphlets designed to supply adequate information to the questions most frequently asked.

Among the publications shown in picture above are: "Enjoy Yourself in Ohio," a pictorial booklet showing and describing most of the interesting and scenic spots of the state; "Facts About Ohio," a digest data dealing with Ohio's agricultural, historical, industrial and recreational advantages; "Ohio—An Empire Within An Empire," a complete inventory of the state's physical assets; and numerous other books specializing on agriculture, industry, wildlife, education, research, recreational areas, forests, and transportation.

These books are sent out only upon request and each inquirer receives material that suits his specific question. Questions that can not be answered satisfactorily with printed or mimeographed pamphlets are answered personally by the commission's staff. Individual treatment is given firms seeking business locations within the state. Many new plants have been established in Ohio recently, either directly or indirectly, through the efforts of the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission.

The Commission assists civic groups in preparing and distributing literature and other programs for the promotion of their localities. One of its important jobs is to stimulate tourist travel into Ohio. The office at 36 N. Third St., Columbus, also handles inquiries that are addressed to the Governor and other state officials.

Chart at bottom shows how public interest has skyrocketed since the end of the war. The high mark in August was due in part to results from state's first national advertising campaign plus interest motivated by the commission's exhibit during the first post-war State Fair.
